

Washing Is Hard Work Have us do yours

LIFTING of heavy wash baskets, tugging with wet clothes, the sudden change from the hot steaming laundry to the outdoors—these are the things that wear out women before their time.

If you count the value of your own health and time, have us relieve you of this work.

We wash the entire bundle in soft, fleecy suds, rinse it in many changes of rainsoft water, iron the flat work, starch those pieces that need it, and leave for you only the ironing of a few lighter things such as most women like to finish up themselves. Or, at a slight additional cost, we'll iron everything.

Have us show you how economical it is to get the washing out of the home.

Making 20 Years of Racing Serve Car Owners Today

IN the early days of automobile contests, Barney Oldfield—out to win every race—studied tires. His consistent success led other drivers to ask for tires constructed to his specifications.

Twenty years of road and track victories—with a steady and increasing demand for tires as he built them—convinced Barney Oldfield that these speed tests pointed the way to a better tire for everyday use.

The enthusiastic reception of Oldfield Cords by the public proved he was right. Scores of the most prominent dealers in the country—and many thousands of car owners, experienced in the use of tires—bear witness by their decided preference that Oldfield is doing a bigger and better job of tire making.

This volume, handled in an effective way in every phase of manufacture and distribution, has resulted in price quotations far below what you'd expect on tires known to be better built and more enduring.

Practically every important race event for three years has been won on Oldfields. The Wichita Test Run in which an entire set of Oldfield Cords covered 34,525 miles on rough roads proves the mettle of the Most Trustworthy Tires Built in everyday driving.

The Master Driver and Tire Builder has given the public a new standard of tire wear and tire cost—a true economy that every car owner should know about.

Your Oldfield dealer has these facts—talk to him.

DEAD OX FLAT RANCHER HAS GREAT VEGETABLE GARDEN

Demonstrates that Irrigated Lands Here will Produce Wide Range of Vegetables on Commercial Basis

What is probably the best display of vegetable and truck crops ever grown on a single ranch in the Snake River Valley is to be seen at the G. W. Lattig farm on Oregon Slope eight miles North of Ontario in Malheur county. Mr. Lattig was appointed Director on Vegetable Crops for the county farm bureau by the executive committee of that organization last January and he has proceeded to carry out his task in no uncertain manner as anyone will bear witness who has visited his farm since his "fifty seven" varieties of vegetables have grown up.

The first thing Mr. Lattig did was to partition off two small farms from his 160 acre high class irrigated ranch, choosing the best land he had for the vegetables. To do this he had to build an additional house. He then took two of the best, experienced white vegetable growers he could find into partnership, agreeing with them as to the crops that were to be grown, thus making up the farms of Lattig and Johnston and Lattig and McGorden. In these steps also he made no mistake as the results testify, there being 11 acres of as good head lettuce as can be found anywhere, 2 acres of Danish Ball-head cabbage that is coming right along, 2 acres of cauliflower some of which is so tall and thick that it practically hides the ground, besides 5 varieties of onions, a half acre or so of tomatoes, several kinds of melons and squash menage, table beets, carrots, sweet corn and sweet potatoes. Also, potatoes of Irish variety, two acres of which are being grown for next year's seed and have already passed the two field inspections for certification and promise to beat all comers for yield.

Besides having a great collection of different kinds of vegetables, the partners have some interesting experiments in process, such for instance as the comparative results from seeding cauliflower in rows where it is to be grown and thinning it the required distance between the plants, or following the customary transplanting process. In view of the possible importance of fall cauliflower as a vegetable which may be grown on an extensive scale for shipment from this section are long, these results are worth observing by vegetable growers and prospective vegetable growers.

In order to give every person interested in this line of farming an opportunity to examine these vegetable demonstrations, County Agent L. R. Briethaupt has arranged for a Vegetable Growers Field Day for Monday afternoon, September 25th at the hour of 2:30 p. m. Aside from examining the growing crops, which will be the main part of the program, it is planned to have one or two short talks on vegetable growing to answer any questions which may come up about production methods and particularly as to the marketability of the different sorts and prospective profits to be derived from growing the same.

PETITIONS OUT ASKING FOR REDUCTION IN LAND VALUES

W. L. Gibson and Others in Nyssa Section Seeking Lower Assessment Value for Taxation Purposes

W. L. Gibson and others who were in Ontario Wednesday to attend the filing of claims for water of the Owyhee river, brought word of the movement that has started in their vicinity to request a marked reduction in the assessments placed on farm lands for taxation purposes.

"We have a petition started and everyone is signing," says Mr. Gibson, "and we are going to see to it that the burden of taxation is shifted. The farmers can't stand it. They are getting more than their share. If the people in the towns were taxed in proportion as the people in the country are, they would not vote so readily for all the improvements we have been getting of late," he continued.

PARIS ETCHER FOUND ARTIST

Marketed Prints Which Brought Fame to Soldier of the American Expeditionary Force.

Alonzo C. Webb, the American soldier who has won sudden fame in Paris art circles by his distinctive etchings, was content to pass his prints out among his friends. One day, however, while he was having his etchings printed by the old-fashioned process called "taffe douce," the printer said: "Why don't you sell these etchings?" "They're not good enough," replied Webb.

"You're crazy," said the printer; "you wouldn't mind selling them would you? Don't you need the money?"

"Yes, God knows I need it, but I never thought of selling these things," rejoined Webb.

The old man gave Webb a note to a dealer in the Rue de Rivoli who took "on depot" one each of five prints. The very next day Webb received a letter at his home at Bellevue, asking for three more to replace those the dealer had sold the first day.

"That must have been a happy morning at Bellevue," I remarked, somewhat stirred at this turning point in the life story.

"Not especially," Webb replied. "I'm partly Scotch and don't often get excited. I take good luck just as I take bad. I rarely even tell about good luck."

"But don't you deprive yourself of a delightful thrill?"

"The pleasure is no less in the aggregate. I take it in a quieter form; it lasts longer and there is no reaction."—Charles H. Grasty in the New York Times.

HAVE NO WORRY ABOUT DATES

In Fortunate Albania They Know Nothing of Such Things as Calendars or Clocks.

Calendars and clocks are luxuries in Albania. The untutored peasantry know only three periods of time—morning, noon and night, and two seasons of the year, winter and summer. Days and dates are Sanskrit to them. Nor have they any conception of distances. When a traveler asks an Albanian the distance of one point from another, he never answers in miles or kilometers, but "It is half a day, it is two days, it is a week." When an Albanian makes an appointment, he is considered to have kept it if he comes within two or three hours of the time set.

With the absence of calendars, the people naturally do not know their correct ages, especially those in the country districts. In this respect the women of Albania enjoy an advantage over their sisters in foreign countries who guard so jealously the secret of their years. Often the age of an Albanian woman is unknown even to herself.

Revised Ages of Man.

At Five—Nobody loves me. I'm going out in the garden and eat worms.

At Fifteen—She does not love me. I shall hang myself in her father's garage.

At Twenty—The world does not understand me. Life is a failure.

At Thirty-five—Why didn't I marry Mabel instead of Helen, Mabel always understood me.

At Forty-five—Now, if I were President of the United States I would—

At Sixty—This isn't such a bad old world after all.

At Seventy—I expect to see a great improvement in conditions in the next 20 or 30 years.

At Eighty—Johnny, tell your mother that her grandma and I have gone to the cabaret.—New York Sun.
